

our community

We provide tools for writers to succeed through our monthly meetings featuring interesting and helpful speakers, annual Mango Writers Conference, workshops, critique groups, writing contests, a spot at the SFWA booth at the world-famous Miami Book Fair, and the Authors Showcase Series published on our YouTube channel. SFWA publishes the Author's Voice, a monthly newsletter about members' written projects and achievements, e.g. poems, short stories, novel synopsis, profiles, and listing of members books on the Bookshelf section.

We co-sponsor the annual Junior Orange Bowl Creative Writing Essay Competition among 8th Graders in partnership with the Junior Orange Bowl Committee and Miami Dade County Public Schools, through cash prizes and judging to foster and recognize writing excellence among our youth.

What is the sfwa?

The South Florida Writers Association (SFWA) is a 501 (c) 3 nonprofit educational and membership organization dedicated to the literary arts and support of writing and writers in our community. Our mission is to establish and maintain a forum for fellowship, education and information among writers in the South Florida area; to encourage excellence and promote interest in literary achievements in the community.

Operating since 1990, SFWA's programs promote audience development for literary works, public educational and information services, group discounts, representation, community projects and advocacy for the literary arts.

Our monthly meetings feature presentations about writing, publishing, marketing topics or award-winning or best-selling authors, agents or publishers, which are held on first Saturdays of the month at the Pinecrest Library located at 5835 SW 111 St. Pinecrest, FL, 10:30am -12:30pm
